PLENTY OF WORK FOR HARVARD MEDICAL UNIT

(By Associated Press)
London, July 14.—The Harvard Medical Unit, under Dr. Harvey Cushing, gave a good account of itself in the recent fighting at Messines Ridge. Although located a considerable distance from the front, it found itself with every available bed occupied soon after the beginning of the push. For several days doctors and nurses worked at top speed, trying to take care of all the cases as they arrived, but were finally forced to summon assistance from a neighboring British unit. Dr. Cushing was at work in one of the advanced clearing stations during most of the heavy fighting, and performed several surgical operations under heavy fire.

Under the new secret process, the cost of production is reduced to one-fourth of the present cost. Glycerine is at present made from fats and costs about 90 cents a pound. The production from sugar will cost about 25 cents or even less. The discovery will have a tendency to conserve the fat supplies. It is declared that the shortage of fats in Germany is due to the great use for explosives. The discovery is the first to be announced by the chemists who are working in co-operation with the Council of Defense.

INTERNAL CRISIS OVERSHADOWS WAR OFFENSIVE

(By Associated Press)
Germany's serious internal war overshadowing the impending war offensives. The peace forces are clamoring in Austria and Germany for peace without indemnity. Part of the trouble between the Reichstag and the government is the failure of the latter to state definite peace terms to the democratic faction which now controls the Reichstag. Apparently the Crown Prince is fighting in behalf of the military interests. Chancellor Bethmann von Hollweg has incurred the displeasure of the Crown Prince as his views do not accord with the military interests he represents. The Russian revolutionary army in Galicia is still sweeping forward with apparently little to stop them from continuing the gap opened by Gen. Korniloff. They have proceeded north of the Dniester and west of the Lomica and have gained victories on a 50-mile front. On the France-Belgian front a waiting policy has been adopted by both Gen. Haig and Gen. Petain.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING MAY PROVE FATAL

Sixteen-Year Old Lad on the Dangerous List at the Portsmouth Hospital With Bullet in His Neck

Vernon Race, aged 16, of Bow, N. H., is at the Portsmouth hospital with but slight chances of recovery, as the result of an accidental shooting at Hampton Beach on Friday afternoon when a 22-calibre rifle bullet lodged in the muscles of the right side of his neck. The shot was fired point blank at the young man by Joseph Martin of Haverhill, Mass. Dr. A. M. Fernald of Hampton was called and he immediately ordered Race removed to the hospital in this city.

According to witnesses of the affair Race, who is an employee of the Casino Bowling Alley, was a spectator at the shooting gallery when Martin was firing continuously with a repeating rifle. One shell failed to properly jack into the chamber and the rifle jammed. On the next attempt to throw a shell into the chamber the jammed shell jumped clear and rolled beneath the counter. Wishing to assist the man in charge of the gallery Race stepped behind the counter, stooped down and recovered the shell. As his hand reappeared above the level of the counter Martin fired, hitting Race who was only a few inches away from the muzzle of the rifle. In the right side of the neck. Dr. C. W. Hannaford of this city

GENERAL SATISFACTION IS EXPRESSED IN JAPAN

(By Associated Press)

Tokyo, June 15.—General satisfaction is expressed in Japan at the appointment of Viscount Kikufuji Isih, formerly minister of foreign affairs, as special envoy to the United States in connection with the present war. The appointment was made personally by the Emperor, by virtue of a special ordinance by which Viscount Isih is designated as temporary Ambassador Extraordinary. The service of installation was attended by Premier Count Terauchi, Prince Takasaka, Grand Chamberlain and others.

It was expected that the commission would leave for the United States on July 3 on the steamer Shinga Maru and spend some three months in that country visiting Washington and other cities. The delegates who accompany the Viscount were selected with special reference to their fitness. They include Vice Admiral Isami Takasaka, who was formerly naval attaché at Washington and who was detailed as captain of the Japanese cruiser Izumo when that warship participated in the festival at San Francisco some years ago; Major General Shuchi Sugano, who has been attached to the general staff since 1915 and who has been the military attaché at London; Matsuo Nagai of the foreign office who has been embassy secretary at Washington and consul-general at New York and San Francisco; Commander Shioyoko Ando; Major Seiji Tanikawa and Tadano Imai of the consular service.

The selection of Viscount Isih as chief envoy is welcomed by the press even of the opposition, because he was foreign minister of the cabinet of Marquis Okuma which was supported by the constitutional opposition party. The Terauchi ministry is praised therefore for its broad-mindedness in choosing a diplomat of rather anti-government leaning. The selection, was made, however, regardless of party considerations and was based solely upon the Viscount's fitness and capacity in advancing a unified Japanese policy in the present world crisis.

Marquis Okuma personally voiced his satisfaction and expressed the opinion that the commission would contribute much towards cementing the cordial relations between Japan and the United States and assist in clearing away any misunderstanding concerning the policy towards China.

The primary object of the commission is one of courtesy in conveying the appreciation of the Japanese government at the action of the United States in joining the ranks of the Entente Allies of which Japan is a member, but in a broad way the commission will discuss questions of cooperation between the United States and Japan in the future conduct of the war, Great Britain, France, Russia, and Italy having dispatched commissions to the United States. Japan feels that it is fitting for her to follow in their footsteps.

There is likely to be an exchange of views on the Far Eastern question generally and even on the situation in Russia which is a source of considerable anxiety. It is not unlikely that the Chinese question, which continues troublesome will be considered and that in a general way the commission will seize the opportunity to further a project of co-operative understanding with reference to political affairs in the Far East.

Viscount Isih, who speaks both the English and French languages easily, has had a long career as a diplomat. He was secretary at Paris and at Peking and was among the ranks of the besieged during the Boxer trouble in China. After having been recalled to the foreign office as chief of the section of telegraphs and then as director of the bureau of foreign affairs, he was dispatched to San Francisco and Vancouver in 1907 to investigate the anti-Japanese movement there. In 1908 he was appointed vice minister for foreign affairs and in 1912 was designated as ambassador to France, which post he filled with eminent success until he was selected to be the foreign minister in the Okuma cabinet. He was still in Paris in the early period of the war and is thoroughly familiar with the European war situation.

ACTION NOT TALK KILLS H. C. OF L.

(By Associated Press)

Rennes, July 13.—Living is said to be cheaper at the present time in Rennes than in any other large town in France. The people of Rennes attribute it to the executive ability of the municipal government. There has been, perhaps, less talk and more action here than in any other part of France during the war. Mayor Janvier is a man of action, a good representative of the class of public men coming to the front in France, men who are capable of taking questions of public interest out of politics and of applying practical methods to them.

M. Janvier, who was formerly a day laborer, becoming later a building contractor, then mayor of Rennes, found a deficit in the city treasury of 100,000 francs when he took office in 1908. At the end of 1909 he had, without borrowing or imposing any new taxes, made good the deficit and accumulated a surplus of more than 100,000 francs. In 1915, the excess of receipts over current expenses of the town had reached 500,000 francs a year.

"This result shows what politics costs in the administration of towns or departments," is the comment of the advocates of regional administration in which the political power of Paris would be diminished.

M. Janvier himself attributes the result to the fact that, having banished politics from his administration, he has been able to secure the co-operation of all the members of the municipal council, irrespective of political complexion, and also the co-operation of all the citizens of Rennes, which he considers the most important of all. He asserts that Germany has no monopoly of the secret of organization. The national organization for time of war, he says, is to increase production. He obtained forty tons of potatoes by municipal gardening of uncultivated land belonging to the town last year. Besides furnishing free potatoes to the different canteens of the town and remarkably cheap potatoes to the rest of the population, the city earned 7000 francs profit from the venture.

Meat went up to excessive prices in December last year. In Rennes, M. Janvier attributed the rise to excessive retail profits. He placed a limit upon the retail price of meat. The butchers closed their shops in protest. M. Janvier opened a municipal meat market, and sold the different qualities of meat at from 8 to 12 cents a pound less than butchers had done and made money for the city. This enterprise was so successful that the number of municipal meat markets had to be increased.

A pleasing peculiarity of every public work done in Rennes is that there is always money left over. At the beginning of the war, M. Janvier organized a central committee for war relief. At the end of last year, after having added 35,000 soldiers and 600 prisoners of war, distributed 1,500,000 meals, 30,000 quarts of milk, several hundred racks of coal, several tons of bread, and furnished 4000 packages of clothing, the committee still had left about 170,000 francs from a total subscription of 635,000.

The history of the financial operations of the city of Rennes will probably be a matter of permanent record and serve as an example in after-war debates on questions of public administration as to what a business mayor can accomplish when he is not hampered by politics.

CAMBRIDGE IS RECOVERING OLD ACTIVITY

(By Associated Press)

Cambridge, England, July 14.—Cambridge is recovering its old pre-war activity, but in an entirely different way. Where the streets formerly were filled with devil-may-care students, they are now full of khaki-clad men hurrying to and from an military errands. Sharp words of command at every gateway replace the vague mysterious noises by which the students conveyed information to their friends.

While the army in the early days of the war virtually emptied the university town, it has now, three years after, filled it with men of all ages who are making the college their own for some months, studying for the army, working in lecture rooms on military problems, while the playing fields are given over to their drills.

Men students are scarce these days and the final batch of students for entrance shows a record of only one hundred as having been passed, virtually all of whom are unfit for military service, against 970 in 1911 and 826 in 1915.

Women have had a successful year, scoring 160 passes.

SPORT LETTER

New York, July 13.—Despite the handicap of unfavorable weather earlier in the season, the major league baseball clubs have succeeded in playing closer to the scheduled number of games this year than was the case in 1916. The actual halfway mark of the present season was reached on July 7 and on that date the average number of games completed in the National league was 71 1-4 while the American league had the advantage of a fraction of three-quarters game on its older rival.

Twelve months ago the average number of games played on the halfway date was American league 71 1-4; National league 68 1-8. In the matter of games, 77 contests marks the completion of the first half of the scheduled 154 and in this respect but one club in the American circuit had reached that point on July 7; the Cleveland team having played just 77 on that day. In the senior organization two clubs—Cincinnati and Chicago—were credited with playing up to the original schedule.

The standing of the clubs in games won and lost as compared with the records a year ago showed that the teams of the American league were playing closer to the 1916 for than those in the national circuit. Dividing of four teams each it is seen that Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and New York figure in both the 1917 and 1916 quartet. In the second half there is but one change over a year ago—Washington and Detroit having changed places.

The change is much greater in the National league. Philadelphia and Chicago are the two teams to hold places among the first four both seasons. St. Louis, seventh, a year ago was third this July, while New York had moved up from sixth place to first. Brooklyn leading the league in 1916 had dropped back to sixth; St. Louis moved from seventh to third; Cincinnati advanced from last to a tie with Chicago for fourth place while Pittsburgh dropped from sixth to last place.

The following tabulations show the number of games played and percentage standing of the sixteen clubs composing the two leagues at the halfway mark this season and one year ago:

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Asparagus is so delicious a vegetable that it runs the danger of being classed with the luxuries and therefore being tabooed in these days of forced economy. This is however, a mistake, for the delicate stalks of the asparagus contain quite an astonishing degree. One trouble about the cooking of asparagus is that it is frequently not cooked enough. In a desire to have

It took well, the housewife often boils the asparagus still tied in a bunch by which means the inner stalks are not so tender as they should be. This can be avoided by using the long-shaped enameled ware kettle which is also invaluable for fish. This kettle contains a tray on which the asparagus can be spread and so cooked through thoroughly and yet be perfectly whole when served at the table. Cut off sweets or toney desserts, but treat your family to asparagus to avoid doctor's bills.

It is in the spring that the small West Indian pineapple comes to us in greatest profusion and at the lowest price. There is no more healthful or refreshing fruit eaten raw. It can also be preserved with little trouble and when the fruit itself is eaten, the syrup left is a most valuable flavoring for sauces and ices. The acid of the pine which is peculiar to itself, is most valuable in form of digestive trouble but it is also an active acid and care must be taken in preparing it to avoid all contact with metal wares. Pare the pineapple and slice crossways into pieces about an inch thick. Cook in the familiar and satisfactory enameled ware saucepan with just enough syrup to cover the fruit, for much juice will come from the sliced pineapple. A thick marmalade or jam can also be prepared from the pineapple which will go far towards helping out winter menus. We all hope the war is not going to be a long one but it is only the part of prudence now to buy what we can cheap and save expenses later on.

The baby is the one member of the household especially benighted by the wantiness and wholesomeness of enameled ware utensils. It is a matter of course that the baby bath tub should be of white enamel. This does not hold the warm and keep the temperature even, and it is hard to clean. The enameled saucepan and double boiler for warming food and sterilizing the bottles, with spoon to match for stirring liquids, make an equipment for the comfort of baby and mother that a generation ago was unknown. Most people will find the enameled "marmoset" refrigerator worth its weight in gold as well. In these days there is no sense in running all over the house for things needed in the middle of the night. Put up a zinc-covered shelf in a convenient corner, set on it a small gas or alcohol stove and the refrigerator. Hang up the other things over the shelf, and be at home.

Hand in hand with spring house-cleaning goes the renovation and refurnishing which the housewife has been planning through the winter days. We all have to eat and with the "this spring economy" is the watchword. The present price of food we must cut down on other things to secure enough of that. There is just one department however, in which it is not economy to do without and that is the kitchen. Whatever else is sacrificed the kitchen equipment should be kept at a high level.

MILK PRICES TO JUMP TO FOURTEEN CENTS

Increase in Price from Dealers to Producers Will Take Effect on August First According to New Agreement

(By Associated Press)

Boston, July 13.—Milk producers of New England will receive their demanded increase of one and one-half cents a quart, bringing the price to the farmer up to seven cents. It was announced by the H. P. Hood company tonight, the largest wholesale milk distributors in New England. This was decided at a conference held this afternoon by the dealers and representatives of the New England Milk Producers' Association. The agreement is seven cents to the farmer, F. O. B. Boston. The delegates present at the conference were as follows: Maine, L. B. McIntire, East Waterford; New Hampshire, W. D. P. Haydon, Dover; Vermont, Herman Stannard, Fair Haven; Massachusetts, Elmer N. Poole, North Dartmouth; Rhode Island, G. A. Henry, Providence; Connecticut, R. A. Sikes, Ellington.

The farmers complained that although they are still being paid their old price of slightly less than five cents a quart for milk the dealers have hitched the price up to twelve cents to the consumer, and the farmers think that there is too much margin in favor of the dealers between the two extremes. They asserted that the price of grain warrants them in asking seven cents a quart.

The readjustment of the price to the farmer will mean an increase to the consumer, Richard Dutce, secretary of the association, said tonight. But the adoption of the new schedule will probably bring about a standard price to the farmer for milk in the larger cities such as Boston, Providence, Worcester and Springfield, the larger shipping and distributing points for the New England states.

Increase to Fourteen Cents.

The increased price to the producers will mean that the dealers will have to charge the consumers in Boston fourteen cents a quart for milk according to C. P. Whiting, one of the big Boston distributors. At present the Boston consumer is paying twelve cents a quart for milk.

STRIKE BLAMED FOR FAILURE OF THIRD LYNN SHOE FIRM

Lynn, Mass., July 13.—The third failure of a Lynn shoe manufacturer, a member of the organization whose operators went on strike on April 18, was reported today. The Adams Shoe Company of that city went into the hands of a receiver, C. Irving Lindsey, a Lynn banker, who represents about 20 creditors. Liabilities are placed at about $100,000. The failure was caused indirectly by the action of Great Britain in refusing to allow shoes to be imported into the United Kingdom, and was brought about by the recent strike as the officials of the Adams Shoe Company assert that if the strike had not occurred they would have been able to carry out their contracts.

David W. Benjamin, an agent of the United States department of labor, arrived in Lynn today and will attempt to bring the city's industrial trouble to an end. He proposed to the shoe manufacturers that they suspend their factories under the wage scale which was effective on April 18, when the factories closed, plus a wage increase of 10 per cent. While the shoe operators are satisfied with this proposition the manufacturers are not. Benjamin suggested that the manufacturers refer their objections to a local board of arbitration, who should submit their decision to the state board of arbitration for consideration.

Chamber of Commerce Working for New Parley.

A call for a mass meeting of shoe workers tomorrow in Eastern Hall, Andrews street, Lynn, injected a new complication today into the deadlock between the Lynn factory owners and the employees, both of whose delegates have decided that further conferences are futile.

Unlike previous calls to workers to assemble, the appeal this time is not signed by the joint committee of the unions or by any union officials. The "call" urges all that are tired of idleness and hunger to be present as a protest against the continued lockout. It was signed "The Workers."

On this account many of the shoe operatives were inclined to view the appeal as a ruse of the manufacturers, who have already intimated their decision to run open shop conditions in

Lynn to discredit the unions with the rank and file of their membership.

Out of the meeting, neutrals in Lynn could see only additional trouble coming, feeling that in the present deadlock any overt move by either side will precipitate trouble.

The chamber of commerce, alarmed at the tenacity of the situation, again endeavored to reopen the conferences between employers and employees by inviting the unions' committee and the manufacturers' delegates to a conference Monday, in the chamber of commerce.

POLICE THINK BOSTON GIRL KIDNAPPED

Boston, July 13.—Close on the heels of the trial of the vice cases in the police court, came another case today which bids fair to assume sensational proportions before it is finished.

Gaspere Galpiero, 32, and Giuseppe Capostella, 23, of Commercial street, were arraigned before Judge Parmenter charged with kidnapping 14-year-old Angelina Gentile of Stuart street. The girl disappeared July 7, but owing to the circumstances of her disappearance, the police did not suspect that kidnappers had been concerned, at first.

When the 14-year-old girl left her father's home $570 of her savings disappeared. After Sergt. McTiernan and Officer Molanus had investigated they found evidence that men had something to do with the girl's disappearance. The girl is still missing.

A few days ago her father was approached by a man who offered to restore the young girl to her home if the parent would sign a paper that he would not prosecute. This the father refused to do. The officers got a clue which led them out of town, and upon their return they arrested the two men who appeared today. The police obtained a continuance of a week so that they may have more time to find the girl.

SLASH DISPOSAL UNDER THE NEW LAW.

Owners of Land Contiguous to That of Areas Being Cut Over are Protected.

In timber operations prior to this year, the state has required the clearing of brush twenty feet from the traveled part of the highway and forty feet from the railroad right of way. The new law, effective July 1st, has increased these distances to twenty-five feet from highways and sixty feet from railroad right of ways, and furthermore has introduced a new feature with reference to the protection of abutting woodlots. The law now requires that, in cutting on land adjacent to the land of another, trees must be felled away from and not towards the adjoining owner, so that the slash resulting shall be as far from the property line as the felling of the tree in a practicable manner will carry it.

In the handling of brush there are many interests which appear to conflict one with the other. An operator is bound to keep his costs low and the handling of brush, even to the keeping it off his neighbor's fence, often seems a burden to him. The neighbor fears loss from fire and dreads the piling of brush against his boundary line. The public desires success for the operator and safety for the neighbor's woodlot which will later make his contribution.

The new provision of the law is certainly a step towards harmonizing these interests and there is no doubt that if practiced in the right way, it will reduce the danger of fire loss. Furthermore, this practice will mean the minimum of sacrifice to the operator.

The law should receive the enthusiastic support of all good citizens. The text of laws covering slash disposal and relating to portable sawmills will be furnished upon application to the Forestry Commission, Concord, N. H.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

For the Protection of Paige Purchasers

A Prophecy of Particular Interest to Prospective
Motor Car Buyers.

The Paige is practically the last to raise prices. We have stood the material raises patiently. At last we confront the inevitable.

However, you will observe in reading Paige prices below that in no instance has the increase been more than $100—although some cars in the same relative price class as the Paige now cost $300 more than heretofore.

We are able to give Paige purchasers this discrimination because they are getting the benefit of the prices at which we bought large quantities of materials on contract months ago.

This advance in the prices now asked for Paige cars by no means covers the actual increase in the cost of materials. The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company is still making a substantial sacrifice in offering Paige cars at these prices.

These Paige cars are therefore more remarkable values than ever before—and the Paige, you know, has always led the field in values. There has been no compromise in Paige quality, no juggling of the factors, little or big, that have won Paige leadership. Not one iota has the Paige standard been lowered.

In view of these facts, Paige cars remain at the present prices the greatest dollar for dollar value the market affords.

However, the market for materials is rising steadily. The cost of producing a car of Paige quality continues to soar. We estimate that we have enough materials contracted for and on hand to permit us to maintain present prices for approximately 60 to 90 days. When this supply of materials is exhausted, it will then, obviously, be necessary for us to raise prices, and even then Paige prices will be raised only in proportion to the increased prices of materials on new contracts.

Our one anxiety, as has always been our policy, is to give Paige purchasers every protection and consideration. We desire to be frank and give fair warning.

The price problem, however, is never a determining factor in the progress of the Paige in winning the preference and confidence of the public. The Paige has always won its way independent of price tags and the artificial labels of price class.

We have always refused and will always refuse to raise Paige prices beyond the actual increased cost of materials.

Therefore, now, as before, you will select the Paige because of its mechanical excellence, its beauty and its supreme quality.

WHOLESALE MURDERESS MUST HANG

(By Associated Press)

Hartford, July 13.—Mrs. Amy Archer Gilligan was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury after a trial lasting four weeks on a charge of poisoning Frank H. Andrews, an inmate of her home for aged at Windsor. Judge Green imposed the sentence of death by hanging of the respondent, setting the date of the execution for November 6.

In the case the government contended that Mrs. Gilligan was responsible for the deaths of forty or more inmates of the Archer Home for Aged in the past several years, all of whom died under peculiar and suspicious circumstances. The state charges as the motive the money she received from the inmates for life residence in the home.

No Relief in Mere Change.

Just now there is a drive in some quarters for the elimination of the pension system as it applies to soldiers and their dependents, to be followed by the substitution of insurance by the government, which would mean the payment of a certain amount for every soldier killed. The exact amount to be paid has not yet been decided upon by those who are advocating this change, but $4,000 has been suggested.

A conspicuous feature of this agitation is the claim that the pension system is full of crookedness and jobbery, if not actual fraud, which would be done away with by the proposed change. There is no doubt that the pension system has been mightily abused in the past and that there will be abuses in the future if it is continued, but will there be less abuse in a system of government pensions if it is introduced? That is the question, and it is a fair question.

To us this movement resembles a practice which has been and still is altogether too common in this country—that of attempting to remedy the unsatisfactory working of any law by the substitution of a new law. Everybody knows how common this practice has been for years. A law is enacted that reads well, and which would work well if enforced, and when it fails to enforce itself automatically the remedy is sought in further legislation. This method of correcting abuses has always been a failure and it always will be.

If it is believed that a government insurance system for soldiers and their families would be better than the pension system the proposed change may well be made, but it ought not to be made with the idea that a mere change in system will eliminate crookedness and jobbery, for it will do nothing of the sort. Lawyers and politicians who seek to advance their own interests through their efforts in behalf of pensioners and applicants for pensions will find as many avenues for the exercise of their ability and cunning under one system as under another. This is a simple fact which if not recognized now will become very plain if the pension system is substituted by an insurance system.

For these reasons it will be well for Congress and the people to think twice before adopting the proposition of government insurance for soldiers and their dependents, in the place of the pension system. The principle of either is all right, but neither will insure honesty or safeguard the government against unjust drafts upon the treasury. The only protection against this evil is honesty itself, and until we can have this in high places it will be useless to look for help through any change in system. There is just as much room for jobbery under one system as another, and the way to get rid of this is to dispense not with the system, but with the jobbers.

The Sure Way of Reaching the People.

It is interesting to note the frantic efforts of those who think they are being discriminated against by the government in the efforts of the government to conserve the food supply, etc. The first thing these individuals and cowards do is to flood every newspaper office with appeals for help through the columns of the newspaper. They do not go to the bill board owners or magazine publishers, but to the newspaper publisher. This paper has three such appeals in today's mail suggesting that we protest in their interest. What does this show? It proves that the sure way of reaching the public pulse and the government or anything else where sentiment counts is through the columns of the newspaper. It is about time that the men who waste millions in marring the beauties of our scenery with unsightly advertising signs stop it. The real live concerns of the country now realize that they can best reach the people through the newspapers.

Andrew Carnegie went fishing the other day and had lots of fun, according to the reports. But there are many men not worth a dollar who have been enjoying this sort of thing for years while the ironmaster was piling up his millions, and who fondly believe that, all things considered, they are ahead of the millionaire in the game of life.

American soldiers abroad have no objection to being known as "Sammies," and there is no reason why they should have. Their Uncle Sam is highly respected in all parts of the world except Germany, and the time is coming when he will be respected there. And the "Sammies" will do their share toward compelling this respect.

Maine has very stringent laws for the enforcement of prohibition, it now being provided that illegal sellers of liquor shall not be let off with fines, but shall go to jail. But the conditions that have prevailed in the Pine-Tree state for many years have not been due to the lack of law.

The boating and swimming season having arrived, the automobiles does not have the casually columns all to itself in the Monday morning papers. Space has to be reserved for the boat, the canoe and the non-swimmers who get "beyond their depth."

WOMEN OF STATE TO INAUGURATE THEIR CAMPAIGN

Will Begin Their War Service Work on Monday Under Direction of Mrs. Mary I. Wood.

Beginning on Monday next, the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense and of the New Hampshire committee of public safety will inaugurate the women's campaign for war service in this state.

Early in May, President Wilson's Council of National Defense, made up of the Secretaries of War, of the Navy, of Agriculture, of the Interior, of Commerce, and of Labor, appointed a committee of ten women whose duty it should be to extend its organization into every state. The duty of this federal committee was to coordinate women's activities for war service.

The first step was the appointment in each state of a temporary chairman whose duty it was to call together the heads of all women's organizations, and such women within the state as were known to have experience and ability which would be of value. This conference of leaders was instructed to effect a permanent state division which should, at the earliest possible moment, extend the organization into every town in the state.

In New Hampshire the woman selected as temporary chairman was Miss Anne W. Hobbs, granddaughter of Mrs. Amanda White. The meeting for organization was held June 6 and there were represented 23 state associations. The permanent officers elected were: Mrs. Mary I. Wood, chairman, Portsmouth; Miss Anne W. Hobbs, vice chairman, Concord; Mrs. Albertus T. Dudley, secretary, Exeter; Mrs. Susan C. Bancroft, treasurer, Concord; directors, Mrs. Mabel N. Adams, Derry; Mrs. Alpha H. Harriman, Laconia; Mrs. R. W. Husbard, Hanover; Mrs. Wallace Harrington, Concord; Mrs. William H. Schofield, Peterborough. To this group were later added Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, wife of the Governor, and Mrs. Lillian C. Streeter of Concord, as honorary vice chairmen; and Mrs. George D. Towne, of Manchester, and Mrs. Robert J. Morris, of Lancaster, as directors.

Subsequently the New Hampshire Division of the Women's Committee of the Council of National Defense was made an Auxiliary Committee of the New Hampshire Committee of Public Safety.

A temporary chairman has been appointed in each town, who has been requested as early as possible, to call together the heads of all women's organizations in her town, regardless of religion, nationality, or other affiliation. This group will form the town unit and will proceed to elect necessary officers. In a majority of the New Hampshire towns the permanent organization has been already effected, while in all towns the work will soon be under way.

A slight delay has been occasioned in some cases by the fear that the Women's Committee might wish to duplicate work already undertaken by Red Cross or Food Committees, but as soon as it has been definitely understood that the plan is to coordinate and not to duplicate work already under way, and that the state divisions and town units are organized at the request, which in a time of war becomes scarcely less binding than a command, of the authorities at Washington, there has been no further delay.

Work will be undertaken as directed by the National Council of Defense and the State Committee of Public Safety. The first work assigned to the committees is the securing of signatures to the food pledge cards which have been prepared by Mr. Herbert C. Hoover, and authorized by the Council of National Defense. The plan as suggested by the New Hampshire division to the chairman of the town units provide for the districting of each town and the selection of a reliable woman as chairman of each district. The district chairman will have the privilege of calling to her assistance as many women as may be necessary to visit each and every house for the purpose of securing the signature of the woman of the house.

The perfection of the organization excites admiration, since it enables President Wilson, or the Council of National Defense, or any person or committee acting under their authority, to get a message quickly to every home in America. This perfect organization of America's women is the result of a long and careful study of the activities of the women in those countries which have long been in the great war. It will be of invaluable assistance if the war continues, and the women of America like the women of France, of England, Canada and other belligerent nations, are forced to take the place of the men who must go to the front; more important for the women of America than of other countries, for if the allies are to win the present war, America must not only feed her own people, but who must feed the world. In this feeding of the world, the women of America no less than the men, must play their part. There must be everywhere an elimination of waste, both of food and of energy; there must be an increase everywhere of economy and thrift; there must be an awakening in every home of the land to a realization of the fact that the country is at war and that neither our serenity of mind, nor our over-confidence in ourselves, nor any other possession can save us from the fate of France and of England, unless the women of America, within the four walls of their own homes, prepare for the defense of their country.

The Women's Committee starts with the fundamental principle that there must be no cliques, no isms, no barriers in their work; women of all kinds will work together in patriotic service to their country. In times of peace it has been said that such a banding together would be impossible, but the New Hampshire Division have no fear for New Hampshire's women. The very composition of its executive board guarantees success, since its members will worship at Catholic, Jewish and many Protestant shrines; they were, before the war was declared, suffragists and anti-suffragists, leaders in many different social and fraternal groups; they are blessed with varying bank accounts, but these things have all been valuable in the training for the service which they are now asked to give to their country; and in the appointment of the sub-chairmen and committees only one question has been asked: Is she efficient? And no chairman has been chosen unless there has been some testimony offered in her favor. With such chairmen and such a spirit, the committee is sure to succeed.

Very soon the Federal Committee will handle, through the state divisions and town units a vast enrollment system of all the women in America; and this will be followed by other phases of patriotic demonstration. Already there is under consideration training classes for many kinds of employment which may be entered by those who may elect to do so.

It is sufficient for the present, however, to say that this women's organization will do whatever it is requested to do by either state or nation. The response from the women of every part of the country is most gratifying. There are few who offer excuses; the great majority feel it a privilege and a duty to be chosen to lead in this great army of workers no less necessary than the great army of fighters; it is enough for these chosen women to know that they are called upon to enlist for a period of time, "so long as the war lasts," in actual service for the country. This is the first time that a great federal organization of women has been attempted; it will try the fibre of our American women, and New Hampshire women will not fall behind those of other states.

A Lesson From East St. Louis.

(From the Chicago Tribune)

When negroes live in any considerable numbers in any community and become an object of political favors and manipulation, the basis for an outbreak like that of East St. Louis is laid. Make no doubt about that.

In other places than East St. Louis this condition exists in a more or less unobtrusive form—in other places not so far from our own doorsteps that we can afford to ignore this truth. In East St. Louis many negroes of the lower order were the tools of the local politicians. Their law breaking had been condoned, insistence and even violence had gone unrebuked, and this could have no other outcome than a revolt of the whites. Race feeling is nothing to be tampered with. It was inflamed in this case. Economic rivalry was probably another factor. But we shall make a grave mistake if we do not face the fact of political corruption as an element of danger there and elsewhere. The bosses of East St. Louis are not the only ones unscrupulous enough to play this game. Decent whites and decent negroes should unite to dispossess their devices wherever they appear.

LITTLE DAMAGE IN NINE HOURS' BATTLE

London, July 14—A dispatch to the Times from Pekin says that firing ceased after a nine hours' battle. Very little damage was done.

LOWER COSTS; UPWARD PRICES

Pastorship was never better and the comparatively cool weather and freedom from flies are in favor of milk cows.

"The hay crop is very good and the increased acreage of corn for ensilage promises an abundant yield. Grain is dear but the dairy farmers are not feeding it freely, and large crops of corn and oats are well assured. Milk should not advance in price under such conditions, but dealers announce advances and predict others yet to come. This is all New York state of affairs have to show after the fiasco they made about the business methods of the milk companies last fall. Consumers are paying more than ever when the milk should be cheaper." From the New York Commercial.

SAYS REPORTS WERE GREATLY EXAGGERATED

(By Associated Press)

Tokio, July 14—E. J. Harrison of Tokio who accompanied the American railroad commission to Vladivostok as assistant secretary and who has returned to Japan, says that the reports of disorders at Vladivostok were greatly exaggerated. If not indeed, entire misrepresentations. He found the city absolutely tranquil.

In place of the former police the city is in the hands of the new militia, largely recruited from the military. The most disquieting symptom from a military standpoint was the terrible congestion of freight of all kinds. Cases of machinery lay about all over the place in utter abandonment exposed to the elements and assuredly in danger of damage and deterioration. Mountains of shells, plantations of cotton, army supplies of every imaginable description bore mute witness, he said, to the incompetence of the old regime.

Mr. Harrison heard stories of occasional high handed action on the part of the local garrison. He was told that in some cases officers occupying government quarters had been turned out by the soldiers or at least compelled to limit themselves to a small portion of the original space, the balance being taken over by the men. He found the men in the streets perfectly sober and well behaved. The officers on the other hand, no longer able to demand the former salute, all seemed to wear a subdued air.

A naval lieutenant whom he met at dinner spoke very bitterly and pessimistically of the new conditions as affecting the army officers, and declared that he and many others were only awaiting the conclusion of the war in order to quit the service for good.

Mr. Harrison went on: "The attitude reflected by the Russian lieutenant just quoted is characteristic of a certain class of Russians who can see nothing but ruin and disaster confronting his country. Persons of this type are firmly convinced that sooner or later Japan will take possession of Vladivostok and probably the whole of the province. And of course they credit the recent rumor that Japan is preparing to discipline Russia in case the latter weakens beyond a certain point or should there arise the spectre of a separate peace. Wild rumors have been circulated about the concentration of the Japanese troops at Mukden."

Describing the reception of the Stevens' commission by the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' delegates, Mr. Harrison who knew the Russian language said:

"Perhaps because most typical of the new democratic order the most vivid impression was made upon my mind by the remarks of the military representative of the council, a soldier who formerly had kept a small shop somewhere in Vladivostok. Without a tremor and with all the aplomb of a seasoned orator this man made an address saying in effect that heretofore a barrier had been set up by the Russian authority between the Russian democracy and the democracies of the west. This barrier had at last been torn down by the heroism of the Russian people who could now stretch out a hand of hearty greeting to their comrades in other lands. Mr. Stevens in every case made apt and happy replies.

The time in Vladivostok was spent in studying terminal problems at first hand. Taken out in a tug boat the visitors viewed the two large naval dry docks and the general configuration of the harbor in its relation to the question of railway transports. On the following day they were conveyed by special train to Pervaya Rezhka (First River) to go over the car-gage assembling shops. It did not need an expert to see that the Vladivostok terminal is suffering from an acute shortage of cars which America can do much to remedy.

An agreement was reached, the commission undertaking to have something like 40,000 cars delivered at the rate of 10,000 monthly, after the lapse of sixty days.

motor boat men in this district were responding in good numbers to the call to take out licenses and that over fifty of them had appeared in the last few days. The registration equals that in the Provincetown district.

A Little Late With It.

A patrol of 32 men from the ships at the Charlestown navy yard has been established in Boston by order from Captain Rush, yard commandant, for the purpose of keeping an eye on sailors enjoying a day off in Boston and at Revere Beach. The guard, which will be commanded by Lieut. C. S. Leonard, U. S. N., will be equally divided between Boston and the beach. The guardsmen will cooperate with the Army guard and the Boston police in trying to restrain too enthusiastic celebrators from the Navy Yard and in preventing illegal sale of liquor to them. Lieut. Leonard yesterday conferred with Police Supt. Crowley in regard to cooperation.

Two Admirals Failing.

The condition of Rear Admiral French B. Chadwick, U. S. N., retired at Newport who was chief of staff to the late Rear Admiral William P. Simpson, a hero of the Spanish war has become worse. Admiral Chadwick was stricken with a paralytic shock on July 1.

Rear Admiral William H. Emory, U. S. N., retired, is growing weaker at the Newport hospital from the effects of a shock.

TRY IT AND SEE.

A few years ago, while watching a parade in Boston in which the Stars and Stripes were conspicuous, a fair foreigner with strong anti-American prejudices turned to a companion and, commenting on the display, pettishly remarked:

"That American flag makes me sick. It looks just like a piece of checker-board candy."

Senator Lodge, who was standing nearby, overheard the remark and, turning to the young lady, said:

"Yes, Miss, it does. And it makes every one sick who tries to lick it."

HOW THE RED CROSS FUNDS WILL BE SPENT

Washington, D. C., July 13—Henry P. Davidson, chairman of the Red Cross war council authorizes the following statement:

Morale newspapers today publish a report that the American Red Cross is to use in Italy $10,000,000 out of the $100,000,000, and more recently subscribed. The report is without foundation and it is important that the policy of the Red Cross in handling these funds be clearly understood.

The Red Cross has appropriated $1,000,000 to provide immediate necessities in France, to be spent under the direction of the American Red Cross Commission in France headed by Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, a member of the war council. The Red Cross has also appropriated $200,000 to purchase medical supplies and instruments, whereby the Red Cross Commission to Russia may take care of more urgent needs upon arrival in that country.

The sum of $200,000 has been appropriated to supply most urgent needs in Rumania. The sum of $100,000 has been appropriated for use in Armenia, and $6,500 has been appropriated to purchase drugs to be sent to the Russian Red Cross.

Aside from the foregoing no appropriations have been made by the war council for work in foreign countries. The need in all our Allied countries is beyond computation, and use can be found for all funds which can possibly be obtained now or in the future. That very fact imposes upon the Red Cross an extraordinary obligation, which it fully recognizes, to use the funds committed to it only after ensuring itself not only that any proposed expenditure will do good, but that it will accomplish the greatest good relative to the other needs which are crying to be supplied.

The Red Cross has now at work in France a commission of experts, and has more recently sent to Russia a similar commission. The expenses of these commissions are born privately and are not a charge on Red Cross funds. It is the purpose of the Red Cross to send similar commissions to Italy and Rumania and also to appoint a commission to Great Britain. No appropriations for use in any country will be made until after investigation, and all except emergency appropriations will be made by the war council for specific purposes and in specified amounts.

It is also the policy of the war council to withhold any very large expenditures abroad until it has made certain that every necessary provision has been made to take care of our own soldiers and sailors.

Appropriations as authorized, will as far as feasible be made public immediately, and frequent statements will summarize the expenditures of the past and set forth the condition of Red Cross finances.

AMERICAN ACCENT ABOUT FRENCH CLOTHES

(By Associated Press)
London, July 14—A correspondent in Paris calls attention to the preponderant "American note" in French fashions this year. He writes:

"There is an American accent about all the new French clothes. It is difficult to define but it is there, and its price is high. Some of the dressmakers when they went on strike carried the Stars and Stripes, and when asked why, as they were agitating mightily for the 'English week-end', they should carry the American flag, replied: 'Oh, it is the prettiest.' The same logic is applied to clothes. American women have always dressed well, and do not mind the cost, so it is to the Paris dressmakers' advantage to make clothes for them."

"Hats show a strong American note. The soft felt hat turned up on the side is worn with a touch of cowboy swagger. The light muslin dress is also an American fashion. Shoes and trimmings show a similar inspiration. In fact, to be dressed 'à la Americaine' is very much the thing."

BREAD CARD IS NEARLY 2,000 YEARS OLD

(By Associated Press)
Alkmaar, Netherlands, July 14—The bread card, that familiar European product of the present great clash of nations is nearly 2,000 years old. That is the discovery of a Dutch professor, Doctor M. Molitor, who asserts that it was in use in Rome under the Emperor Augustus, in whose reign Christ was born.

Moreover, not only did Romans have their bread cards and their government grain, a term that has become so familiar in Holland, but government intervention in ancient Rome evoked as much discontent and friction between public and bread purveyors as has been the case in these modern days.

When baby suffers with eczema or some itching skin trouble, use Doan's Ointment. A little of it goes a long way and it is safe for children. 50 cents a box at all stores.

GERMAN REICHSTAG GOES ON STRIKE

(By Associated Press)

The political situation in Germany is fast reaching a crisis and Emperor William has called into conference Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, chief quartermaster of the army, to discuss the situation. The German government has refused the demands of the Reichstag to re-harmonize the cabinet and the Reichstag has gone on strike. The official news comes from Copenhagen.

Copenhagen, July 13.—Serious news came from Berlin late today. The Reichstag has gone on strike and the members have decided to suspend the labors both of the full house and the main committee until the political situation is cleared up. This leaves the year credit bill in advance. Emperor William has summoned Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Chief of the General Staff, and General Ludendorff, the Chief Quartermaster General for a conference. This news should be interpreted in connection with intimations that the German government has decided to refuse to re-harmonize the cabinet and the difficulties reported in connection with the adoption of a peace resolution.

CHAMPIONS JOIN Y. M. C. A. AT HEAD OF THE LEAGUE

As the result of an old-fashioned batting fest and a few free tickets to the first base, the Y. M. C. A. in the Sunset League last evening by trimming the Independents 10 to 2 in four innings. In the opening session each team scored twice and it looked as though the game was going to be tight. In the second Bush Hodgdon was in a bad hole with the bases full and one out, but a force-out at home and the fanning of another ended the inning with no scoring. By losing the Independents drop into fifth place with only a few points separating them and the Knights of Columbus at the bottom of the list.

The game produced a couple of sensational catches, one contributed by Tommie Lynskey of the Champions when he raced in and picked Nahrwald's fly off his shoe strings. The ball was caught in one hand after a hard race, probably one of the prettiest catches made on the local field for years. Lynskey also grabbed two more the next two batters to come up sending out flies to left.

Bennett, left fielder for the Independents, also made a circus catch when he nailed the foul fly sent out by Ralph Brackett in the first inning, racing in from deep left.

Bill Brackett contributed to the spectacular plays when he made a beautiful pick-up and throw of Hodgdon's hard-hit line drive to short in the second. The rap looked pretty safe for a scratch single until Bill got his glove under the ball.

Hodgdon lacked his usual control and in the third inning his wildness was responsible for the forcing of two runs. Smith, the regular catcher, was among the missing and his position was filled by Zajac. While Zajac is a star out-fielder his work behind the bat was strange and it was unfortunate that he had to play the post.

Two long hits, one by Cavalluto and one by Treddick, each for three bases, were the only extra base hits pooled.

The Game.

1st Inning (P. A. C.)—McPheters hit to left for a clean single and advanced third when Bill Brackett came through with a single past first. Bill stealing second. Bennett made a great running catch off R. Brackett's foul fly near third. Treddick sent out a long fly to McCabe in center and McPheters scored from third after the catch. Brackett going third. Mose Howard came through with a single over short scoring Bill from third. He stole. Lynskey was thrown out at first. Esterbrook to Norman, on a grounder. Three hits, two runs, no errors.

(Independents).—Esterbrook was safe when Charlie Brackett allowed his grounder to go through him. Nahrwald was fanned. Norman was thrown out at first by Charlie Brackett on a grounder. Esterbrook advancing to second. Bennett singled to right scoring Esterbrook from second. Cavalluto came through with a triple to right center. Bennett scored on the hit. McCabe was out on a fly to Bill Howard in center. Two hits, one error, two runs.

2d Inning (P. A. C.)—Woods singled to right. W. Howard out on a fly to Zajac. C. Brackett was hit by a pitched ball and McPheters walked, filling the bases, a passed ball having advanced Woods and Brackett to third and second, respectively. Bill Brackett hit to Nahrwald whose peg to Zajac for Woods at the plate for the second out. With the bases still full Hodgdon stepped down and R. Brackett was called out on strikes. One hit, no errors no runs.

(Independents).—Reardon grounded out. Treddick to Howard. C. Brackett nailed Zajac's foul fly. Hodgdon was out on a grounder to W. Brackett on a difficult play. No hits, no errors, no runs.

3d Inning (P. A. C.)—Treddick hit to right center for three bases with a drive good for the circuit had it not struck an auto in the field. Someone pulled a bone and Treddick was thrown out attempting to score on the grounder sent out by Mose Howard. Esterbrook to Zajac. Howard was safe at first. Lynskey was passed and Cavalluto's error allowed Woods to reach first, filling the bases. Bill Howard drew a pass, forcing in Mose with a run. C. Brackett was fanned. Hodgdon passed McPheters forcing in another run with Lynskey. Bill Brackett singled over second scoring W. Howard from second, going second on the throw from center. McPheters running to third. Zajac, after receiving the throw from McCabe threw wild to third to catch McPheters and Mac and Bill Brackett trotted home with two more. (Cavalluto) replaced Hodgdon in the box. Bush going to third. R. Brackett was passed, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Treddick was thrown out at first on a sharp-hit grounder to Cavalluto. One hit, two errors, six runs.

(Independents).—Esterbrook singled with a bouncer that went over Charlie Brackett's head. Nahrwald hit to short left and Tommie Lynskey made his sensational catch. Tommie also got under Bennett's high fly to left for the second out. Esterbrook was ordered to steal but R. Brackett's peg to Treddick cut him down. One hit, no errors, no runs.

4th Inning (P. A. C.)—Mose Howard made his second single with another drive to center, stealing second and going third on a passed ball. Lynskey was thrown out at first on a grounder by Nahrwald. Howard belted held at third. Bill Woods came across with his second hit scoring Howard with a drive through short. He stole and took third on Zajac's overthrow of second. Bill Howard singled to right scoring Woods and when Reardon hove wild to first the batter trotted second. Charlie Brackett out on a fly to Norman. McPheters grounded out to Cavalluto. Three hits, one error, two runs.

(Independents).—Lynskey made his third catch in a row off Bennett. Cavalluto hit over second for a single but was forced by McCabe on a grounder. Treddick to W. Brackett. Reardon forced McCabe for the third out over the same route. One hit, no errors, no runs.

PERSHING HAS STRAWBERRIES WITHOUT SUGAR

London, July 13.—(Correspondence).—Major General Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force in France, seated for tea on the beautiful Terrace of the House of Commons with Colonel Astor as his host, had an experience in England's war rationing when he found that he could not have sugar in his tea and on his strawberries as well.

"You may have only one portion of sugar, two-sevenths of an ounce," the waitress informed him with a quaint air of preciseness, and the General promptly chose sugarless strawberries, remarking that the sun, as though anxious to compensate, had sweetened the strawberries so well that sugar was not essential.

In the hazy times of peace, the House of Commons waitresses used to trip about the Terrace during the fine June afternoons with big bowls of white powdered sugar and lavish jugs of cream. Now the sugar is strictly rationed, and the amount of cream that may be used is limited to one small measured portion for each person.

SHIPPING IN HOLLAND AT A STANDSTILL

The Hague, Netherlands, July 13.—The harbor movement at Holland's chief port, Rotterdam still is in a very depressed state. Shipping there has continuously declined since the beginning of the war. Arrivals this year have been about one-half the number of the arrivals during the same period of 1916. Since February last, the demand for labor has fallen off. At Amsterdam the position has been much more favorable.

As regards the general labor market, apart from a labor surplus in the ports, in the diamond industry, and recently amongst cigar-makers and glass-blowers, there is rather a shortage than a superfluity of labor in the country, declares the Minister of Agriculture, P. E. Posthuma. This state of affairs finds expression in the employment of 7,223 interned foreign soldiers in private business.

The Minister notes incidentally that the moving picture theatres are profiting from the high earnings of young persons.

There are, it appears, no symptoms of any considerable retrogression in the nation's health, albeit the situation of those who have to live on a small fixed income, and of a great part of the factory workers, may be termed a hard and difficult one. Farm hands are better off, wages in the few country having in some cases risen.

BRITISH WAR SHIP LOST BY EXPLOSION

(By Associated Press) London, July 13.—The British man-of-war Vanguard, was destroyed on July 9 by an internal explosion which occurred while the warship was at anchor. It was officially announced tonight by the British Admiralty. Three members of the crew were saved, one of which has since died. The remainder of her officers and crew were lost with the exception of 24 officers and seventy-one men who were not on board.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE LEAGUE ARE FALLING OFF

Portsmouth more than did her share in subscribing for the Liberty Loan and again in her offering to the Red Cross Mercy Fund but the baseball fans are not coming through with their usual generous support of the Sunset League. The collections are far from what they should be and the league will be short a third of the season unless the contributions are increased.

The Sunset League has been in operation for seven years and has always given the baseball loving public first class entertainment. Not only that but it has built the grand stand, the bleachers, kept the diamond in shape, and has established a game, sunset baseball, which has been adopted in hundreds of other cities and towns in the country.

This season there are six teams composed of sixty-five or seventy good fellows who turn out night after night to play the game and furnish entertainment for the fans. There isn't any question about the brand of baseball they put up for fast visiting teams in past years have come here and learned that the Sunset League teams can give them good battles.

But the league cannot exist on yells and cheers. While moral support is necessary to the success and continuation of the league the long green is the stuff that keeps it going and the fan that drops his dime into the box in the third inning is doing his bit to keep alive an organization that has become an institution. Don't dart the box. Don't look at the scenery when Jerry and Fred come along. Put in a Jit or a dime, and two bits will not be refused. It is a safe bet that a less interesting of healthful amusement might cost more.

The league needs the money.

PAPER ASKS MEXICO TO BACK ALLIES

Mexico City, July 13.—El Universal, which has been conducting a campaign in favor of the allies, requests editorially today that the government declare a policy of "benevolent neutrality" toward the allies as soon as possible. The statement says in part: "It would be extremely dangerous to adhere to strict neutrality, because we have to account for dangerous violation of neutrality committed against any of the combatants."

"If Mexico remains neutral for the time being it should not remain impartial, but should give all its sympathy to countries that have the same form of government and the same ideals and who have permitted and fostered the existence of weak nations."

El Universal compares the line of action of the great democracies, American, French and Russian, with the crimes of German militarism, and also compares the case of Miss Cavell and others with the treatment of military prisoners by England and France.

ASK WOMEN CUT STYLE DURING WAR

Washington, July 13.—Uncle Sam today asked women to abandon "styles" during the war.

The Defense Council woman's committee launched the appeal.

"Wear the clothes you have, so manpower now engaged upon feminine fads and fripperies may be released for real war service at home or abroad."

"Buy at reasonable prices regardless of style. Don't refuse to buy a gown because there's too much or too little material in it. Let us make use of what we have."

H. S. Spinney, 41 McKering St. Portsmouth, says: "On account of the heavy work I do, my back occasionally gave me trouble. Daily grinding pains took me across my back and bore down on me like a great weight. At times, it was hard for me to work as I have to bend and lift continually. I was finally told of Doan's Kidney Pills and since then, this medicine has never failed to put my back in good shape. I always keep them on hand in case of necessity."

Insistence of women on "something exclusive" to tickle her vanity and arouse envy in the next door neighbors house was strongly advised against in the committee's statement.

Women rushing into khaki also was derided because "it puts the women in competition with the government for millions of yards needed for troops."

The wisdom of using up present styles and having fewer styles during the remainder of the war to conserve man-power will be seen by American women, the committee believes. Mrs. Joseph Lamar issued the statement.

Women's League for Dress Economy. New York, July 13.—America's women will be glad to get behind the movement, launched in Washington, for elimination of useless fashion frills during the war, Miss Maude Wetmore, head commandant of the Women's League for National Service, declared today.

"This league is essentially trying to do things from a common sense point of view," said Miss Wetmore today. "We believe the women of America will use common sense and that they will do whatever is sensible. That means they will not be extravagant, but on the other hand they won't be abiggantly."

GOETHALS WILL DEFY DENMAN IN SHIP FIGHT

Washington, July 13.—A new crisis was reached in the Goethals-Denman shipping controversy today when Gen. Goethals announced that he will go on with contracts for about $350,000,000 worth of steel ships, in which Denman's friends declare there is $50,000,000 excess profit to steel concerns.

President Wilson has assured Goethals his plans for building an emergency fleet "will in no way be hampered."

Armed with a letter from President Wilson expressing confidence in him, Goethals will defy Denman's control of the emergency fleet corporation effected through a board of directors, including two of Denman's clerks and F. G. Bostis, who was "fired" by Goethals.

By yesterday's executive order the President placed in the corporation and not in General Manager Goethals personally, powers to speed up production and spend $500,000,000 of the congressional appropriation.

MISTAKEN FOR MARSHAL HINDENBURG

(By Associated Press)

Rome, July 13.—Among the prisoners captured in the big Italian push on the Carso front is an officer who bears such a strong resemblance to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg that he was at first taken for the latter. The prisoner, a major of infantry, was observed in the collecting station by an Italian intelligence officer, who exclaimed:

"What! Have we got the great Hindenburg?"

"No," replied the major, "I am not Hindenburg or any relative of his. I am merely a poor wretch who will do no more fighting."

RUSSIANS CONTINUING THEIR DRIVE

(By Associated Press)

With the fate of the line of defense of Lemberg still in the balance Russians are continuing their drive and are menacing the lines of the Austro-German defense in Galicia by widening their wedge south of Stanislaw in the last six days of fighting.

After forcing their way across the Lomnica the advance continued toward Dolina and Sirij. The capture of these two towns would force a general retreat of the Germans and Austrians opposing the Russians under General Korniloff.

In the latest reports from the battle front the Russians in end day's action have captured 1000 additional prisoners, mostly Germans, five heavy guns and ten machine guns.

The resumption of fighting north of the Prepel marshes is reported and the Austro-German lines are being subjected to heavy bombardment.

Threatening in Roumania. The Russian advance west of Stanislaw and on the border of Roumania is threatening German control of Roumania. Russian and Roumanian artillery is heavily bombarding the German lines and infantry has been sent out to test the enemy's strength.

Battles and small infantry engagements are occurring between the British and German forces on the northern end of the French line while the airplanes are continuing their activities.

South of St. Quentin the French armoured accounted for eighteen German machines, shooting down ten and disabling eight others in an air battle. Action is in progress between the armies of the French and Germans on the Aisne and on both banks of the Meuse in the Verdun region.

N. E. SENATORS PROTEST GUARD CAMP IN SOUTH

Letter Sent War Department
Reviews Arguments Against Plan.

Washington, July 13.—New England senators yesterday presented to the Secretary of War announcement of their protest at the announcement of National Guard organizations from New England are to be transported to some southern guard camp for training prior to their dispatch to France.

Senators Lodge and Weeks of Massachusetts, Hale and Fernald of Maine, Brandegee and McLean of Connecticut, and Dillingham and Page of Vermont united in this letter sent by messenger to the War Department:

"The attention of the undersigned has been called to the proposed action of the War Department to transfer as soon as mobilized the New England division of the national guard to Fayetteville, N. C., or some other point in the South. This matter has never been submitted to us nor did we have any knowledge that the department had under contemplation such action which is our reason for not having brought our objections to the proposed transfer to your attention at an earlier date.

"Without having any knowledge of the intentions of the department relative to these troops later in the year, we are not of course in position to advise definitely; but we believe that it would be for the best interest of the service if this division mobilized is sent to a camp or camps in the New England states for these reasons:

1.—The climate in New England is more nearly like the climate of Northern France than is that of any section of the South.

2.—It will lessen the costs to the government of getting these troops to the front, that is it will save at least the cost of transportation to the Southern cantonment.

3.—We believe that when the citizens of New England become aware of the proposed action there will be and should be a vigorous protest against such action. We believe that public sentiment in a matter of that kind should be given serious consideration.

4.—Whatever may be the conditions surrounding the place these troops will be located in the South we submit that for the summer and fall months being acclimated to the New England climate the health of the organization will likely be better if these troops are not transferred to a new section and a different climate.

5.—This statement is very largely based on the supposition that the National Guard is to be sent to the front within a reasonable time, but if it is the purpose of the department to take such action later in the year or early next year, and for that reason it is considered desirable that these troops be transported to a warmer climate previous to their transfer to the western front, we contend that this action can be taken as well as better late in the fall than at this time.

THOUSANDS OF FISH DRIVEN ON SHORE

The residents around Wallis Sands and Rye North Beach put a crimp in the high cost of living for the past few days as far as fish dinners are concerned. Thousands of silver hake have lined the beach to the extent of nearly two tons, having been driven ashore by dogfish. The sands were completely covered with the fish and quite a number of them found their way to the dinner tables.

WANT LOCATION FOR HANDLING UP-RIVER COAL

Party of Business Men Here to Inspect Water Front.

A party of business men representing manufacturing firms of Dover, Exeter and Newmarket were in this city on Friday and inspected several points along the river front in Portsmouth, Kittery and Kittery Point. It is understood that they are seeking a location where a coal discharging plant can be erected for up-river shipment to the places named above. They also want to build sheds for the storage of soft coal. The parties are decidedly anxious to handle all shipments of coal from this city by water and the Chamber of Commerce might interest itself in the matter and do what is possible to help place the industry on the river front in Portsmouth. Otherwise they may establish on the Maine coast.

CONFERS WITH MRS. WOOD ON FOOD SITUATION

HOODLUMS INDULGE IN STREET FIGHT

Citizens living in the vicinity of the Wentworth hospital have lodged several complaints at the police station this morning over the disgraceful scenes and disturbances that occurred in that section of the city from 12 until after 1 o'clock this morning. Had the parties entered their complaints by telephone to the police station this morning during the disturbance, Capt. Murray and the night patrolmen would without doubt have rounded up the entire gang of hoodlums.

It appears from what the police have been able to learn that a party of roughs from Portsmouth came here in automobiles to attend the dance at Central Park last evening. With the fourth company doing duty at the dance, the hoodlum visitors did not take the chance of starting anything, but on their way down from the park they found many people walking to this city and they got out of their autos and started a fight and it is said that the bunch of scrappers from down the river got the worst of it. It is said that one young man from Portsmouth had one of his ears either bit or torn off in the fight which took place near the Wentworth hospital.

The officers are investigating the matter in relation to the disgraceful disturbance and if they can get sufficient evidence they will bring the parties before the court and let them pay the penalty for the disgraceful disturbance which they caused.—Foster's Democrat.

WILL LIKELY BE A TEST CASE

Federal Authorities to Decide Legality of Liquor Seizure at Biddeford.

What will likely be a test case under the "bone dry" laws of Maine, is that of the seizure of liquor from two men at the railroad station, Biddeford on Thursday. The men claim the liquor was for their personal use and it's up to the federal authorities to decide the case.

The sheriffs saw the two men get off the train with apparently heavy dress suit cases. The deputies accosted the men. One had four quart bottles containing whisky, rum and alcohol, while the other had eight quart bottles of Sterling ale.

The two were taken to Judge Geo. L. Emery's office and they explained that they brought the stuff down for their personal use.

The beer and liquor were confiscated by the deputies and the men allowed to go while the federal authorities were notified. If the men see fit, they can claim the stuff when the libel expires.

This is the first case since July 1 when the new law went into effect and the outcome will be eagerly watched by the people who like a little in the medicine chest for personal consumption.
